Foreword

We thank you, customers and friends, for your patronage and confidence in Merry Gardens. To those whom we will meet this year, we send a warm welcome and hope that you may find the same interest and excitement in growing our plants as we do in propagating and raising them. We look forward to a wonderful year together, exchanging ideas and suggestions which can be so helpful to both. This is one of the most satisfying sides of our business.

The seven years in the life of Merry Gardens have been years of steady growth and expansion in all directions. Today we now have extensive gardens for our perennials and herbs, an adequate, attractive building for our office, display and shipping needs, and a fine new hundred-foot greenhouse for our house plants.

Having a background of twenty years experience in Horticulture as well as College and Horticulture School training, we feel equipped to meet the needs and demands of the rare plant collector. We are constantly adding new varieties to our already large list.

It is our aim to grow healthy, strong plants, and raise the newest and finest strains. We personally fill each order with the finest plants, packing very carefully so that they will reach their destination in good condition, whether it be Alaska, Panama or Puerto Rico, and replacing when justified.

We have an excellent selection of the most informative garden books, old and new, for sale, handled by Dorothy Kent, a former bookseller. Miss Kent is our consultant for advertising, decorating, garden designing, and also makes lovely hanging baskets for trailing plants.

Two young children, Loretta age 10 and Wayne age 12, who came to live with us four years ago do their part in the shipping room and gardens.

So from all of us to all of you, we extend a hearty welcome and hope that this year will bring many of you to see us in our lovely location surrounded by the Camden Hills.

We have shipped plants successfully to every state in the Union, to Alaska, Canada, Panama, Puerto Rico, and England. They are guaranteed to reach you in good condition. Beyond that we cannot take the responsibility for their growth. We do make adjustment in case they are badly damaged in transit, if we are notified within ten days after they are received. Our postage rates have proven to be correct for the size plants we ship. It may vary but we delight in tucking little surprises in your order and giving extra care in selecting and packing your plants which we feel more than repays you for the postage-packing charge. We do not substitute unless permitted to do so and acknowledge all orders as soon as received. We ship to avoid delay over the weekend or on holidays.
